

Drs. Tabia Akintobi & Kisha Holden Admitted to 2018 Culture Change in Academic Medicine Leadership & Mentoring Institute

Both Tabia Henry Akintobi, Ph.D., MPH, and Kisha Holden, Ph.D., MSCR, were recently accepted into Brandeis University's 2018 Culture Change in Academic Medicine Leadership & Mentoring Institute. The institute is specifically geared to the needs of mid-career and senior faculty and is sponsored through the National Initiative on Gender, Culture and Leadership in Medicine. The Initiative engages medical schools and academic health centers in action research promoting culture change.

The year-long program, which starts in January 2018, features an inclusive, humanistic, relational, and energizing environment that helps all individual faculty and trainees reach their full potential and enhances diversity among those in leadership positions in academic medicine.
