

MSM PRC's Calvin McAllister Takes Part in EPiC Initiative

On June 7, 2017, Morehouse School of Medicine (MSM) Prevention Research Center \(PRC\)'s Calvin McAllister took part in the Emory Pipeline Collaborative \(EPiC\) initiative in partnership with the SPCC Atlanta AHEC at Emory University School of Medicine, which educates high school students from economically disadvantaged backgrounds and exposes them to career opportunities in health professions.

The presentation included:

1. An introduction of the Prevention Research Center and its contribution to the metro Atlanta community
2. Definition, purpose, and process of community health needs assessments
3. Overview of results from community health needs assessments
4. Brief list of community service opportunities for students