

SHLI's Drs. Bayer and Hopkins to Receive Awards at 2017 SSSS Annual Meeting

Satcher Health Leadership Institute (SHLI)'s Drs. Carey Roth Bayer and Jammie Hopkins will receive the "Distinguished Service to the Society for the Scientific Study of Sexuality (SSSS)" Award and the "Rising Scholar in the Field of Sexuality" Award, respectively, during the 2017 SSSS Annual Meeting, November 9-12, 2017, in Atlanta, Georgia.

The Distinguished Service Award is bestowed upon an SSSS member for outstanding and extensive service to SSSS. Dr. Bayer has been a member of SSSS since 2002, having served in various capacities, such as: 2017 Spring Symposium Chair, reviewer for the "Journal of Sex Research," member of the Continuing Education, Finance, and Membership Committees, and secretary and treasurer of the Board of Directors and Executive Committee.

The Rising Scholar Award recognizes an individual who has authored at least two publications dealing with sexuality, led at least 6 professional presentations on sexuality topics, led development, implementation or evaluation of a sex education counseling, therapy or health-care program, and chaired/co-chaired a professional committee dealing with sexuality.